

Ann PASCOE 1803 – 1868

Ann PASCOE's web page: <https://jansquire.com/tng/getperson.php?personID=11259&tree=squire>

Ann PASCOE was born in 1803 in Wendron, Cornwall. I cannot find out much about her, but her father William PASCOE was a master carpenter and joiner, and he is recorded as employing and training one apprentice in 1789. Ann married William TRELOAR in 1824, in Wendron. The family is recorded in the 1841 English census, but William is not home that night. He might have been working in the mines somewhere, for in 1847, William, Ann and their twelve children depart for Adelaide, South Australia, where they settle near Kapunda. It seems they are now on a property and are farmers. Ann dies in 1868, in Kapunda, at the age of 65 years. Their children mostly live long lives and the family has spread widely.

Origin of the Surname PASCOE

English (Cornwall): from a Cornish variant of the personal name Pascal (see Paschal).

William PASCOE b c1770

William PASCOE was born around 1770, but I cannot be sure because there are too many possible baptism records in his hometown and nearby. I know he married Elizabeth in 1796, in Wendron, but her maiden name is not recorded. William and Elizabeth had five children in Wendron, and the second was Ann born in 1803.

Ann PASCOE b1803

Ann PASCOE was born in 1803, in Wendron, Cornwall. She married William TRELOAR in 1824, still in Wendron, and they had ten children by the 1841 census. Interestingly, Elizabeth and her children are listed in the census record, but not William. We presume he must have been working that night somewhere, possibly in one of the many nearby tin mines. He is still in the family because they have two more children in Wendron, and they all depart for Adelaide, South Australia in 1847. I cannot find a record of their departure, but I do have evidence of the family's arrival at Port Adelaide. They probably went straight to Kapunda, and they seem to have settled on a farm at Allen's Creek, near Kapunda. Ann TRELOAR died in 1868.

Ann PASCOE is Jan SQUIRE's great x 4 grandmother, and she married William TRELOAR. Their daughter's daughter is Ann MORRIS, who married William RUNDLE, my great grandfather and my mother's maiden name.

The TRELOAR surname has a narrative, and you can read it here:

I have also written a narrative for the RUNDLE surname, and you can read it here:
