

John RANN 1821- 1903

John RANN was born in Dudley, Worcestershire in 1821, married Sarah Anne STANLEY in the same village in 1844, and set sail for South Australia with a pregnant wife and two young children late in 1854. He is listed as a carpenter or joiner, so would have had the skills a young community in South Australia would want. I cannot find any census records in 1851 to indicate where they were living, but this was a time of the Scottish Highland Clearances, and also the Irish famines, so there was the likelihood of many families moving to the city of Birmingham, already a highly industrialised city. John and Sarah would most likely find the offer of an assisted passage half way around the world to Adelaide to be quite attractive.

I have identified four earlier generations of RANN in England, the earliest being another John RANN, born 1709 in Birmingham. This is around 15 miles east of Dudley, so they did not move very far in the almost 150 years before leaving for Australia. This John RANN married Amphylliss BEALE in 1744 in Kidderminster, also not far from Birmingham. Their youngest child was Thomas RANN, born 1758.

Thomas married Elizabeth LAMBSDALE in Bromsgrove in 1784, only 20 or so miles from Birmingham, and they also had four children. I still cannot find occupations, but the eldest, Joseph RANN, was born in 1792. Birmingham would have been growing because of the industrial revolution at this time, so farmland would be giving way to industry and housing. Joseph married Ann GWINNUTT in 1815. Ann lived in Dudley, where they married and raised their children. There were nine children in total, the fifth being our John RANN.

John married Sarah Anne STANLEY in Dudley in 1844, and their first two children were born there. In December 1854, they boarded a ship in Liverpool for the three month journey to Port Adelaide. On the way, Sarah Jane Northern Light RANN was born, with the name of the ship being included in her given names. They all arrived safely in Port Adelaide on 7 April 1855. John and Sarah had two boys in England, a daughter born at sea, and two more girls born in Port Adelaide. John was well-known as a carpenter and builder around Port Adelaide, and also took a keen interest in local affairs. He was a Councillor of the Port Adelaide Corporation for many years, and was also active in the Port Adelaide Institute. The Port Adelaide Institute was said to be the driving force behind the formation of the Cricket and Football clubs.

John Albert RANN was the eldest of John and Sarah's children, and became established as a builder. On 13 May 1870, John A was mentioned in a notice in the Evening Journal (13 May 1870; TROVE) as being a member of a group proposing to form the Port Adelaide Football Club, with John being a committee member. John and his brother Richard played in the early football teams. There was also a mention of John A RANN playing cricket in 1879 (TROVE Port Adelaide News, 1 November 1879 page 2), where he was last in, needing four runs to win, and managing to hold up his end while his partner scored the runs. I would like to think John was a strike bowler, but . . .

John Albert RANN married Fanny MUSSON in 1889, and had seven children. The eldest, Maude Holbrook RANN, was born 1890 and went on to marry Edwin Morris RUNDLE, who is included in my previous RUNDLE narrative. Fanny is interesting because she is described as an accountant. It is also of interest that their daughter Maude H RANN is mentioned on the marriage certificate of John SQUIRE and Ethel GILL in 1914, as a witness. One wonders whether this was a convenience as John and Ethel married the day she arrived at Port Adelaide from England, and two witnesses were needed. The other was the minister's wife. Ethel SQUIRE and Fanny RANN must have remained close friends, as their children Ken SQUIRE and Constance RUNDLE later married. Both these family lineages have been previously described.

Edwin RUNDLE and Maude RANN lived in Cheltenham. Maude died in March 1946 at age 56 years, and Edwin died in 1958 aged 70 years. Their three children, Lance, Constance and Neil married and had children in Adelaide, where many of us still live today.
