

John STODART 1816 – 1883

John STODART's web page: <https://jansquire.com/tng/getperson.php?personID=I54&tree=squire>

The STODART family are one of the most interesting, for we can trace them back to the 1400's in Scotland. They are certainly the closest we get to the UK upper class, or at least the Landed Gentry in Scotland. This is my longest narrative with more than 450 individuals listed in my family history website. STODART is a very important name in Anne SQUIRE (nee KEIGHTLEY)'s story. It is also the main reason I started this family history journey, after seeing the A1 size parchment of the whole STODART family tree that Anne's father had obtained from a cousin in Melbourne.

For this narrative, we will start with John STODART, an accountant that worked in a bank in Bath and elsewhere in the West Country of England in the mid-1800's. He arrived in Melbourne, Victoria in 1852, with his wife Sarah and six children. Their eldest, also Sarah, married Alfred CHAMBERS, and they came to Adelaide in 1866. Alfred is Anne's great grandfather, and the CHAMBERS surname is explored in a separate narrative.

Going back to the 1400's, we meet Rukard STODDART, and a few John and James STODARTs, and I am relying on entries in 'Burke's Landed Gentry', the FamilySearch website, and also a hand-drawn STODART family tree, for most of the details. There is no record in the 'Scotland's People' website, or anywhere else I can find on-line, for the lead STODART in the printed family tree (John, born 1565), for John's birth or marriage, and it is known that sometimes the family information in Burke's Landed Gentry' is 'partly fiction'. Still, I will choose to believe 'Burke's Landed Gentry', and I am confident in the information I have checked from the 1700's onwards. The family dispersed widely, and I have knowledge of family in USA, Buenos Aires, New Zealand, and of course here in Australia. There will also be significant numbers of descendants in England and Scotland. I have been selective in which people I have researched, covering mainly those people who are important to this story, and those who are Anne's direct ancestors. My research and this paper is a continuing work in progress.

The Early STODART's

Rukard STODDARD b1454

There are records of the STODART name, with variants, in Scotland in the 1300's, but the earliest I can find that I have moderate confidence about, is Rukard STODDARD, born in 1454, and he married Ann. This information comes from family trees in FamilySearch, and I cannot independently verify the details. However, Rukard and Ann had three children, the middle one being Hugh STODDART.

Hugh STODDART b1485

Hugh STODDART was born in 1485 in Staffordshire, England. Hugh married Susannah RISHTON in 1502. They had at least one child, William STODDART, born in 1504, still in Staffordshire.

William STODDART b 1504

William STODDART was born in 1504 in Staffordshire, England. He married Frances STANLEY in 1530, and they had a son, John STODART born in 1538 in Staffordshire.

John STODART b 1538

John STODART was born in 1538 in Staffordshire. John is the first person with the 'STODART' spelling, but spellings do change often at this time. John marries Anne HEARDSON in 1559 in London. The generations above are new information since my earlier version of this narrative, and are only from information included in the FamilySearch website. The record does show their son as John STODART born 1565 near Edinburgh in Scotland, but both parents are buried in England. For a family that has supposed to have been farmers near Edinburgh, the accuracy of this information has to be considered as only moderately reliable. Importantly, I have not been able to disprove the connections.

John STODART b 1565

John STODART, born in 1565, does seem to have some evidence of fact. John farmed land in Liberton, only a few miles south of Edinburgh in Scotland, in what is now a suburb of Edinburgh. This is the first generation recorded in 'Burkes Landed Gentry', where there is an extensive write-up on the family. Some researchers claim John's wife was Margaret LANDELLS, with them marrying about 1615. Seven children are listed, with one of them being James STODART, born 1610 in Liberton. James and Margaret are both well over 40 years of age at this point, so there is a question for me as to whether there is a missing generation here that is not recorded. It also appears some of these children were born before John and Margaret's marriage date.

Fig. 1 – John STODART is recorded at Liberton from 1565, marked as '1' on the map.

From here, the records seem a little more logical. The next few generations are recorded as living in the same general area, near Edinburgh.

James STODART b 1610

James STODART was born in 1610 in Lasswade, and married Helen HOWISON in 1636, in Midlothian, Scotland. There is evidence of four children. Their third child, also James, was born in 1645, in Loanhead, just a bit further south of Edinburgh.

James STODART b 1646

This James STODART was born in 1646 in Loanhead, and married Elizabeth JOHNSTONE in 1694, also in Loanhead. They had 9 children, the fourth being (surprise) James, born in 1703 in Dalkeith Scotland, still not far from Edinburgh.

James STODART b 1703

The next generation James STODART was born in Dalkeith, and married Marion HAIG in 1728, in Loanhead. They had eight children, the oldest being Adam Haig STODART, born 1729 in Lasswade, still close to Edinburgh.

We now start to have diverging interests and different travel directions. James and Marion's children will be listed separately, with some information about where the subsequent generations head, and what they do. But first, James' children are:

- Adam Haig STODART; born 1729. Adam's descendants are Anne's direct ancestors in Australia. There were also descendants who were emigrants to USA and Argentina.
- George Walston STODART; later immigrant to South Australia
- James STODART; stayed in Edinburgh.
- John STODART; a descendant goes to New Zealand.
- Agnes STODART; stayed in Edinburgh.
- William STODART; stayed in Edinburgh.
- Elizabeth STODART; stayed in Edinburgh.
- David STODART; descendants emigrated to Tasmania.
- Robert STODART; pianoforte makers in London, and a grandson was an important history researcher

James STODART's Family

Adam Haig STODART b 1729

Adam was born in 1729 in Covington, near Edinburgh, and died in 1780 in the same place. He married Agnes WILKIE in 1752 in Echlen, which is to the south-west of Edinburgh. They had seven children, some of which are important to our story. We are particularly interested in their third child James, born in 1756 in Covington, near Edinburgh. His grandson would eventually come to Australia. Adam is also Anne SQUIRE's 5 x great grandfather.

Meanwhile, Adam's youngest brother Robert (born 1748) went to London and became a harpsichord and piano maker. He had opened a shop in London around 1775, after learning how to build the instruments from John Broadwood. Adam's children Matthew and William would soon join their uncle in the piano business. Other family members took the piano making skills to New York and were very successful. Stodart pianos were produced there up until 1930, when the then owners closed during the great depression.

Adam's third child was James STODART, born in 1756 in Covington. James married Agnes THOMSON in 1781 in Covington. James and Agnes had eight children but John, born in 1782, fathered another John who came to Victoria, Australia in 1852. We will come back to this John later, as he is the headline person of this narrative. They had two other children, Lockhart and William that we will also return to.

George Walston STODART b 1731

George was born in 1731 in Lasswade, south of Edinburgh. He married Jean TWEEDIE, a family name that appears quite a lot around this time. They have five children, the oldest being Thomas, born in 1770 in Walston. Thomas marries Christian TWEEDIE around 1798, and they have five children. The youngest of these is Laurence STODART, and he brings his wife and three children to South Australia in 1839, but sadly he dies in Nairne in 1841. This is well before Anne's ancestor John STODART gets to Victoria, but all of Laurence's three children have several children and the STODART name proliferates in South Australia from this line.

James STODART b 1733

James STODART is born in 1733 in Lasswade. He marries Janet STEELE and have two children. This family seem to stay around Edinburgh.

John STODART b 1735

John was born in 1735 in Carnwath near Edinburgh. He marries Helen LIND in 1756, but she dies around the time of the birth of her third child, in 1768. John's second marriage is to Mary SMITH, and they have eleven children. All seem to have stayed around Edinburgh, but a grandson came to New Zealand.

Agnes STODART b 1737

Agnes was born in 1737 in Walston. She married William WHITE in 1756, and I have not been able to follow this family further.

William STODART b 1740

William was born in 1740 in Lasswade. He married Christan NAISMITH in 1782 in the parish of Dalziel, near Edinburgh. The family seemed to stay around Edinburgh.

Elizabeth STODART b 1743

Elizabeth was born in 1743 in Lasswade, and she married a Mr BLACK at some stage. I was given this marriage information, but I can find no evidence to prove it.

David STODART b 1745

David was born in 1745 in Easton, and he married twice. He married Mary TWEEDIE in 1771, and later married Elizabeth BRADFUTE in 1791. Together, he had eleven children, and one from his second wife, also David, arrived in Tasmania, Australia, in 1822. David is the first STODART to set foot in Australia, so did he encourage others to follow?

Robert STODART b 1748

Robert was born in 1748 in Dunsyre, some 30 km south-west of Edinburgh. He married Alison TURNBULL in 1782 in the parish church of St-Martins-in-the-field, London, so Robert was already here learning his keyboard instrument trade. There is evidence he had a shop in London from 1775, and his nephews, Matthew and William had a shop in Golden Square, London in 1790. They held patents for pianos, and they also had warrants for the supply of pianos to the sovereign of the day. I have been told there is a STODART piano in Buckingham Palace, and I have seen one in Buenos Aires in 2017.

Robert's grandson was Robert Riddle STODART, an important family historian who contributed to the family research.

The Next Generation

The children of James STODART, as listed above, had children and grandchildren who gradually moved away from Edinburgh to many corners of the earth. I have listed some of James grandchildren and their children in the following paragraphs, to show what they did or where they went. There are some most interesting journeys.

Note that the children from the above generation are listed again in bolder type, with their children listed below. I have included all children, but those in ordinary type with no text are either not researched, and/or are not part of the main descendency trail.

Janet STODART

Marion STODART

James STODART b 1756

James was born in 1756, in Covington, south-west of Edinburgh. He married Agnes THOMSON in 1781 in Covington. James was recorded as being known as the 'King of Covington', on account of his size and strength. James died in Covington in 1829. James and Agnes had eight children, and the oldest two, Adam and John, went to America, probably to set up the piano business in New York. However, John had married Hannah TOTHILL in 1814, and they had six children by about 1825. It is not clear when John went to the USA, but his second child, also John, born in 1816, stayed behind and came to Victoria, Australia, in 1852. This John STODART is the main subject of this immigrant narrative, and we will return to him later to discuss the Australian family and Anne's ancestors.

Matthew STODART b 1858

Matthew was born in 1758 in Covington, near Edinburgh. He married twice, to Charlotte YOUNG in 1783 in London, and to Elizabeth HOLMES around 1800. Matthew joined his uncle Robert in the piano business, and with his brother William, eventually succeeded him. Matthew and William seemed to be involved well into the 1800's. Their shop was at The Golden Square, London, which is close to Piccadilly Circus and Covent Garden.

Lockhart Carluke STODART b 1759

Lockhart was born in 1759, at Carluke, hence his middle name. He married Susan CASSELS in Carluke in 1798. They had eight children, the sixth being Matthew, born in 1810. Matthew is important because he emigrated to Argentina before having children. He married Elizabeth DOBMAN, but I cannot find a source for this in Scotland or England. However, their four children have English rather than Spanish sounding names, so they probably met in England or Scotland.

In 2017, Anne and myself visited Argentina and met Raul STODART and his son Augusto. Raul gave me a good document setting out his family, but I am yet to fully translate it from Spanish to get some of the key event dates. Raul and Augusto are descended from Lockhart and his son Matthew, as follows:

- Matthew, born in 1810 in Carluke, Scotland. He married Elizabeth DOBMAN after 1830, but I could not find any confirming record in Scotland or England. His youngest son was William James.
- William was born and married in Argentina. His youngest son is Mateo Andres STODART, so we now have more Spanish sounding names.
- Mateo was also born and married in Argentina. He had three children, the oldest being Mateo Raul STODART.
- Mateo was born and married in Argentina. He had two children, the eldest being Raul Alberto STODART.
- Raul was born and married in Argentina, most likely near Buenos Aires. He had two children, the younger being Raul Alberto STODART, who we met in 2017.
- Raul was born in 1969 near Buenos Aires. He married L GARCIA, and they have two children. The elder child is Augusto STODART who we also met in 2017. He had good English because he had studied in Texas, and he has a respectable world tennis ranking. Raul was pretty good at using his Spanish/English translation app.

George STODART

William STODART b 1762

William was born in 1762 at Covington, near Edinburgh. He married Janet WILKIE in 1791 in Kirkliston in 1791, and they had four children. He died in 1848, but I can find no record to support this. William followed his uncle into the piano business, and he was very successful.

William and Janet had four children, the second being Matthew. Matthew was born in 1794, in London, so his father had come to London to join the piano business by then. Matthew married Jane LOADER in 1850 in Paddington, and I have transcribed this marriage record. However, he would have been 54 years old at this time. Additionally, I have been given birth details for five children, but four pre-date their marriage. I need to undertake more research here.

Matthew came to Australia, and settled in Richmond, Victoria. He died in 1862 in Richmond, according to Victorian death records. Matthew definitely came to Victoria, but I am still to be convinced he is William's child.

George Walston STODART's family

George was born in 1731 in Lasswade, near Edinburgh. He married Jean TWEEDIE in 1769, and they had five children, the eldest being Thomas. George died in 1806. A grandson of George comes to South Australia.

Thomas STODART b 1770

Thomas was born in 1770 in Walston, near Edinburgh. He married twice, firstly to Christian TWEEDIE, but I cannot find any record of this. Christian and Thomas had five children, the last being Laurence Biggarshiels STODART, born in 1805, not surprisingly in Biggar. Christian must have died soon after, for Thomas married Ann BROWN in 1809. He had one further child with Ann. However, he and his wife were reported lost at sea in 1820, on a return voyage from Lisbon.

Laurence came to South Australia in 1839, on the ship 'Palmyra'. He settled in Nairne with his family, but died in 1841, at the young age of 35 years. Laurence had three children, all born in Scotland, and they all married and had several children each. There are, therefore, many descendants in South Australia.

John Cartland STODART b 1773 (10th child)

John was born in 1773, in South Leith, near Edinburgh. He married Grace HENDERSON in 1819, also in South Leith. They had seven children, the third being Hugh STODART, born in 1817 in Lanark. Lanark is around 40km south-west of Edinburgh.

Hugh married Helen HUTHINSON in 1847 in Lanark. Hugh and Helen had three children, the first was born in Lanark, but the next two were born in East Knoyle, Wiltshire. The youngest was John Hugh STODART, and he was born in 1857. At some point, he married Jane Williams and moved to New Zealand. John and Jane had three children, the youngest being James Hutchison STODART. I found information that he died in 1915, probable from involvement in WW1.

Robert was born in Dunsyre, south-west of Edinburgh in 1796. He married Maria STODART (a second cousin), but I cannot find any on-line evidence of a date. They had two children born in London, in 1816 and 1822. Almost immediately, they left for Hobart, Tasmania, arriving in September 1822. A further five children were born in Hobart, from 1823 to 1834. Robert was a medical Doctor, trained in Edinburgh, and practiced in Hobart.

Some of the children stayed and had families in Tasmania, while a few moved to Victoria, where their numbers flourished. The eldest, David, must have gone back to Scotland, because he died there in 1892.

John Riddle STODART

John was born in 1792 in Edinburgh, and married Jemima BROWN in 1826. He was a 'writer to the signet' in Edinburgh, which is a senior lawyer. They had four children, the eldest being Robert Riddle STODART. Robert is an important figure in our story because he developed a life-long interest in history and genealogy.

Robert was born in 1827 in Edinburgh, and it is worth quoting from his short biography:

"He received his education at the High School of Edinburgh and the Edinburgh University. At the age of 18 he went to Ceylon and took charge of a coffee plantation belonging to his father. In 1863 ill health obliged him to return home, and in April 1864, he was appointed Lyon Clerk Depute, a post which he held till his death. He early on developed a taste for local and family history, and even while in India he was an ardent student of those subjects. He published in 1880, "Scottish Arms", in two large folio volumes; the first consisting of a collection of Arms, beautifully facsimiled in colours from ancient manuscripts; and the second, of heraldic and genealogical notes illustrative of those Arms. This work has been called "the most important contribution to Scottish historical heraldry since the days of Nesbet". It established their author's position "as one of the ablest genealogists of the day". A biographical sketch will be found in The Scotsman, Edinburgh, April 20, 1886."

Robert never married, and he died in 1886. His work on the STODART family is often quoted, and it includes a number of researchers culminating in a parchment of most of the descendants of John STODART, born 1565 being given to Anne's father in the late 1960's. I still have it and refer to the chart regularly.

STODART Family History Chart

The STODART Family History Chart was first shown to me around 1970, then being in the custody of Anne's father, Ray KEIGHTLEY. Its size is approximately A1.

There is a note on our Chart to say that the original STODART tree was brought into revision by Mary Tweedie STODART (Mrs ROSE). She was born in 1873, and lived in Oliver, Peebleshire, Scotland at the time. Mary was therefore the creator of this modern Chart, but her work was almost certainly based on the work of John Riddle STODART, mentioned above. She probably would have created the Chart in the early 1900's, as she lived from 1873 till 1952. The basic tree was probably copied for several researchers, for virtually identical copies exist in America, Argentina, and in Australia. The holder of the USA copy was excited because I quoted identical phrases from my tree on my website that she had.

It seems that a copy found its way to Tasmania by 1930, for there is a note on our Chart citing D Edmund STODART stating that the original copy is lodged with a bank in Melbourne in 1930. Other Melbourne based researchers have failed to find this Chart.

The copy that is now in my possession was drawn by Arthur SMART before 1970, and was given to Ray Stodart KEIGHTLEY (Anne's father). It is likely that Arthur had access to David Edmund STODART's version of the STODART family information and/or the Chart, either at the Bank, or elsewhere. He had faithfully reproduced earlier Charts, because a family member in America commented on the notes and phrases that I had placed on one of my earlier websites, that they were identical to what she had on her copy. Arthur's contribution is to add the Australian descendants to the tree.

Arthur SMART had married Elsie CHAMBERS, a granddaughter of Alfred CHAMBERS and Sarah STODART.

The STODART Family tree, as drawn by Arthur SMART prior to 1970.

John STODART 1816 - 1883

As stated at the beginning of this narrative, John is lead person of interest for this narrative, and he arrived in Melbourne, Australia, in September 1852. Subsequently, his daughter Sarah and Alfred Ocean CHAMBERS came to South Australia in 1866.

John STODART is descended from Adam Haig STODART (he is described a few pages above), who was born in 1729 in Lanark, Scotland. Adam's eldest son was John STODART senior, born 1782. John was involved in the piano business, and went to New York in the early 1800s, where he died in 1834. John's fourth child was our John STODART, and he stayed in Scotland for a time instead of following his parents to America.

John STODART (junior) was born in 1816 in London, to John STODART and Hannah TOTHILL. John junior married Sarah ASHBY in 1842 in Devon. John was a bank officer, and was recorded in 1851 as being in Bath, which is where their five eldest children were born. The family emigrated to Victoria, Australia in 1852. One child may have been born during the voyage, and a further child is recorded as being born in Victoria. John died in Castlemaine in 1883.

Their eldest child, Sarah STODART, was born in 1843 in Bath, and she came to Victoria with her parents. She married Alfred CHAMBERS in Castlemaine in 1863. Their first two children were born in Victoria, before the family moved to Adelaide in 1866. In Adelaide, a further eleven children were born to Alfred and Sarah.

Alfred CHAMBERS, Sarah nee STODART and their large, young family.

There are a significant number of STODART descendants in South Australia and Victoria. The CHAMBERS family of Alfred and Sarah CHAMBERS who came to South Australia are described in the CHAMBERS narrative, published previously. Sarah is Anne SQUIRE (nee KEIGHTLEY)'s great grandmother. The KEIGHTLEY narrative has also been published.

Future Work

This narrative is quite extensive, but still misses lots of people:

- There are many women who married into the STODART family, and I will eventually explore their ancestors and story.
- There are many men with different surnames who married STODART women that have not been pursued in this narrative. One day . . .
- There are also many siblings of families described above without commentary. These will be explored if I live long enough.
- There are also many STODART descendants with little information recorded on the STODART Chart. Most of these have not been explored either (yet).
