

Sophia COX 1845 - 1911

Sophia COX has a very abbreviated narrative, because the records I can find for her are very sparse. I only know her approximate birth date from census records, and I only have census data for her married years of 1871 to 1901. She died just before the 1911 census, and I only have her death date from an unreferenced source in FamilySearch.

However, census records indicate residential addresses in Bristol, and helpfully show her birthplace as Bedminster, Bristol. Sophia married William GILL in Bedminster in 1865, and they had 11 children. The ninth child was Ethel GILL, my (Jan's) grandmother. Ethel was born in 1884. Sophia GILL died in Bedminster in 1911.

James COX b?

The only reference to Sophia's father, James, is on Sophia's marriage record, where he is recorded as her father. There are records of a few James COX in the Bristol region, including baptismal and marriage records, and I do not know for sure which is correct.

Sophia COX spent most of her life in Bedminster, Bristol, marked '1' on this map.

Sophia COX b1845

Sophia is adequately described above. She married William GILL in 1865, and their daughter came to South Australia in 1914 and married my grandfather the day she arrived. That must have taken some planning, for John SQUIRE was working at Port Wakefield.

We believe this is a photo of Sophia, although she does not look very happy. Perhaps one of her children had just died.
