

Susan SHACKLOCK 1825 - 1860

Web page - <https://jansquire.com/tng/getperson.php?personID=1622&tree=squire>

You would think that SHACKLOCK would be an easy surname to research, but no. I can find information about Susan in England, but very little unique or satisfactory records exist for her parents or earlier ancestors. Susan was born in London at the end of 1825 and baptised in 1826. I cannot find any record of her coming to Australia, but she was in Portland, Victoria in 1847, when she married Abraham BARRETT. There is a separate narrative about the BARRETT surname.

Abraham and Susan had seven children in Portland, and we are most interested in their fifth child, Hugh BARRETT, who is Anne SQUIRE's great grandfather. Hugh moved to Mount Gambier, and Susan died in Portland in 1860. She was quite young at only 35 years of age.

Source of the SHACKLOCK Surname

English (mainly Nottinghamshire): nickname from Middle English shak(e) 'shake' + lok 'lock', probably denoting someone with a habit of shaking back their long hair.

John SHACKLOCK b c1800

WE only know about John from information on his children's baptism records. John would have been born around 1800, probably in Nottinghamshire, and he presumably married Mary Ann (surname unknown) in London, prior to Susan's birth in 1825. There were 27 baptisms to parents with the same names in the timeframe (two in London), so I am unable to be sure about Susan's siblings. There is only one death and burial recorded in London in our extended timeframe, in 1845, so this may be our John.

Susan SHACKLOCK b1825

We have a bit more information about Susan. We know she was born in London in 1825, and she came to Portland, Victoria by 1847. She met the Tasmanian lad Abraham BARRETT, but not sure where. They certainly married in Portland in 1847, and had seven children here. We have a great photograph on a glass plate from 1859 of the family standing out the front of their house. We have looked for the house recently, but it seems to have been demolished and the area is now a reserve. Susan died in 1860 at the age of just 35 years, in Portland. Abraham does not appear to have remarried.

Susan SHACKLOCK is the great great grandmother of Anne SQUIRE nee KEIGHTLEY.
