

William TRELOAR 1800 – 1857

William TRELOAR was born in the very south west corner of Cornwall in 1800, most likely to a mining family. He married Ann PASCOE in 1824, had 12 children by 1844, and then decided to bring the entire family to South Australia in 1847. There is no firm evidence that he was a miner, but it is most likely that he worked in the mining industry. He died in 1857 at the young age of 57 years, but left a large number of descendants in the colony.

William's earliest ancestor I have found is his father, Benjamin TRELOAR. Benjamin married Penelope ROWE in 1795, and William was born in 1800, in Wendron, Cornwall.

William brought his family from Cornwall to South Australia, and immediately settled in Kapunda. He and Ann lived there for the rest of their lives. His fourth child was Ann, born in 1831 in Wendron, Cornwall. She made the long voyage with the rest of the family in 1847, but soon moved to Adelaide. She met William Laity MORRIS and married in the capital in 1853. I have previously written about the MORRIS family, and the story continues in that narrative.
